SKIN SENSE

We feel like parents when we talk about Nude Skincare - we're so proud that it's a British brand. Everything about this range of skin and bodycare plus the carefully balanced internal supplements has been devised with modern life in mind - ensuring optimum protection against the environment whilst delivering beautiful complexions from the inside out. But their ethos isn't just about looks; it focuses on green issues as well. So out go the harmful, irritating chemicals and animal testing and in comes organic ingredients wherever possible, recyclable packaging and carbon neutral production methods. Our hero products are the Miracle Mask: five minutes and you're good to glow; the Hibiscus Monoi, a fab infusion of pure coconut oil and delicate hibiscus formulated to pamper dehydrated skin from top-to-toe, and the excellent, skin-focused probiotic supplements.

Perfect for packing and suitable for both men and women. Available from Harvey Nichols (p. 17).

IT'S HAMMER TIME!

If you're serious about your clothes, make a date for the Twentieth Century Fashion Auction at Christies on 4 March. Just try to stop your hand raising to the roof for sartorial treasures like a 1940s Hermès coat, 1980s Elizabeth Emanuel ballgowns, 1960s Pucci pieces and Vera Wang bespoke eveningwear circa. 1990. If those aren't tempting enough, there'll also be a sought-after selection of handbags, Louis Vuitton luggage (below) and jewellery going under the hammer. Estimated prices from £200-£2,000. 85 Brompton Rd, SW7, 020-7930 6074.

TIP OF THE MONTH

It's all about East London this month (see p. 15). Slip into your most comfortable shoes and discover the many retail delights to be found in and around Spitalfields (map D11). We love it on a Sunday afternoon for the cool, casual market vibe and seriously good shopping ranging from bric-a-brac and vintage fashion to organic food and one-off furniture. Brilliant stuff.

WHAT'S IN STORE

MEN AT WORK

When it comes to dressing the part, it's all about the detail. Forget show-off patterns and in-your-face design, sometimes a gentle but assertive nod says so much more than words. If you're more of a softly-spoken man, discover the clever cuts and five-star fabrics at Kilgour - classic confidence that speaks in a modern international language (p. 18).

HAUTE CHOCOLATE

It's always good to have an excuse for chocolate indulgences and Easter is about as choc-tastic as it gets. Be seduced by the divine confections and superior packaging at London's finest homegrown chocolatiers, ranging from the old-school like Charbonnel & Walker (1 Royal Arcade, Old Bond St, W1, 020-7491 0939) and Prestat (14 Princes Arcade, W1, 020-7629 4838), to newer brands like Godiva (17 The Piazza, WC2, 020-7836 5706) and Paul A. Young (20 Royal Exchange, Threadneedle St, EC3, 020-7929 7007).

IT'S HER SHOES BUSINESS

Ladies: why limit yourself to a measly two pairs of shoes when you can travel in style with your favourite dozen? Tumi's super-luxe Shoe Trunk is just the thing for glam girls on the go, offering prime jetsetting space for up to 12 pairs of your fanciest footwear. How could any bona fide fashionista have ever lived without it?

Available exclusively from Harrods for - wait for it - £3,125. Hey, what price style? (p. 17).

COOL BANANAS!

Hurrah, Banana Republic comes to London this month. Check out the excellent value clothing and accessories previously only found Stateside. 224 Regent St, W1.

→ Nauticalia bills itself as the First Shop In The World, due to its location at 24 Nelson Road, Greenwich - at 4/10 of a minute west of the Prime Meridian.
